

Inspiring the Future offers schools the chance to invite professionals in to their school to help pupils understand what a good resume looks like, how to write cover letters and what employers are looking for when they're recruiting young people.

Planning your event

1. Decide if it is a whole-class activity or a one-to-one with particular students.
2. Log on to Inspiring the Future and invite volunteers who have selected 'resume help' as an activity, giving details on the date, time and venue, along with what you would like them to do and/or bring.
3. Once a volunteer has confirmed attendance, follow up one week before the event to re-confirm.
4. Brief the volunteer, sending them any example resumes or anything you might want them to particularly focus on with students.
5. Prepare pupils by asking them to draft a sample resume so they can explore how they would improve or add to it.
6. Ensure the volunteer knows the format and is prepared to speak to a certain number of pupils and in what environment (for example, in small meeting rooms or in a large hall with other volunteers sitting at tables).
7. Let us know how it went – send us any pictures, videos and feedback so we can help to showcase and celebrate your success. Please Contact us and follow us on @ITF_Australia the account that we will retweet from.

Free resources for teachers

You can find a range of free resources on our Inspiring the Future –Australia website <http://www.inspiringthefuture.org.au/page/volunteers-help-with-resume-interviews/> such as example resumes and also hints and tips on writing convincing covering letters.